Governor considering others for commission appointment

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Gov. William Winter is considering other Gulf Coast area residents for appointment to the State Wildlife Conservation Commission.

The Mississippi Legislature adjourned recently without considering Walter Phillips, a Bay St. Louis attorney, who was Winter's nominee to the commission—fulfilling the prediction of State Sen. Martin Smith of Poplarville reported in the April 14 issue of The Sea Coast Echo.

Phillips' confirmation by the Senate and its Conservation Committee was necessary for his placement on the commission.

In a Friday press conference, Winter blasted the legislative committee by accusing it of violating the State Open Meetings law by voting 7-6 in a recent secret meeting not to take action on his nomination.

Many gubernatorial appointments must be approved by the Senate, but Phillips is the first Winter appointee to be contested.

Smith reported without Senate action, the governor must then nominate someone else to the commission to fill the slot which will be vacated on July 1 when the term of Billy Gollott of Biloxi expires.

The governor failed to re-appoint Gollott to the group which regulates the seafood industry and limits hunting.

David Crews, Winter's press secretary, said recently, "The governor hasn't made a final decision (regarding a new appointment), but he's looking at several qualified people."

"I believe he's going to pick someone from the Coast," Crews reported. Gollott was the only commission member from the Gulf Coast area.

When asked if Jerry O'Keefe Jr., son of a former Biloxi mayor, would replace Gollott on the commission, Crews replied, "I do know who's in the running, but I'm not at liberty to reveal those names."

Crews said the governor does not "have a firm, fast time-table" for appointing someone else to the commission, when asked when Winter will appoint someone.

Smith said Winter's new appointee would remain on the commission at least until the legislature meets next January to consider the nomination.

But the governor's term will expire before January which would allow the new governor to replace that appointee, the senator noted.

TRAILER FIRE—Firemen reported the interior and contents of this 24-foot Coachman Cadet T.T. RV are a total loss following a Thursday afternoon blaze at the Rupp Trailer Park on Beach Road about one mile south of Buccaneer State Park. Owners of the vehicle are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rupp of Clermont Harbor, and occupant is listed as Virgil Hurley who was away at the time. Firemen at the scene include, from left, Reg-

Lakeshore resident nabs subject sought by police

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A person sought by authorities after he apparently abandoned a stolen vehicle in the Lakeshore area and fled into the woods Friday was held by a resident for police according to Hancock County Investigator Delbert Saay.

Saay said, "Mississippi State Trooper David Kenny was in pursuit of a reportedly stolen vehicle on US-90 when the driver left the highway and entered the Lakeshore Community. Kenny then gave chase of the driver as he fled into a heavily wooded area and disappeared."

"Several hours later Lakeshore resident Emmett LaFontaine was approached by Gregory King, 25, Rt. 3, Box 260, Gulfport, whom he held at gun point until authorities arrived, as LaFontaine knew a subject was being sought in the area," Saay added.

King was charged with grand auto theft and later transferred to a Harrison County Jail by T.P. Naylor, senior investigator of the Mississippi State Highway Patrol, where he was lodged with no bond.

Ronald Peterson said, "King was placed on probation several weeks ago in connection with a burglary of a Tranquility Trails residence in North Hancock County and forgery of three checks in Harrison County."

A search of the area for King was being conducted by State Troopers, Hancock County deputies and Waveland Patrolmen.

In Circuit Court action Friday, Sam Gerson of Derby, Miss. was found guilty of aggravated assault in a December 1982 incident at the Mayberry's Lounge on Highway 53, and was sentenced to serve 20 years at the State Penitentiary at Parchman by Circuit Court Judge James Thomas, Peterson reported.

"The assault charges stemmed from Phillip Ladner of Necaise Crossing receiving a gunshot wound in a leg," Peterson stated.

The ending of April's term of court left Peterson with 16 persons housed in the local jail scheduled to go to Parchman.

"The procedure takes about two weeks for Circuit Court Clerk Jerry Heitzmann to process the papers after court convened on Friday, and as soon as everything is in order, I will try to relieve the crowded conditions in our jail," Peterson allowed.

The local jail lodged 33 persons Saturday morning.

Circuit clerk reports office a real challenge

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County's Circuit Court Clerk Jerry Heitzmann says working 12-hour shifts six or seven days week since he took office in January has helped him get things running smoothly in the office.

Heitzmann said, "It was a rough introduction entering the office with no experienced help, especially when one week later, began the busiest and longest court term in the history of Hancock County."

In the time Heitzmann has been in office he says many new procedures and bookkeeping systems have been introduced to more efficiently handle the many functions required of the clerk.

Heitzmann added, "The circuit clerks of Harrison, Stone and Pearl River Counties, as well as many others have helped in the transition."

Heitzmann said one of his biggest problems in the beginning was trying to locate documents needed for operation of the office.

A lot of shifting and reorganization of files had to be done because of a shortage of space, like the rest of the county offices located in the courthouse.

Some records more than 20-years-old were boxed and filed away, to help make room.

During the January term of court, more than 900 jury summons were mailed, over 300 witness subpoenas issued, and the term of court disposed of 138 cases.

In the April term which ended Friday, 583 summons were issued, 249 subpoenas processed and 111 cases handled.

Heitzmann stated, "The election commissioners have mutually agreed to handle all the legal duties and responsibilities regarding the elections as required of them by law."

"The circuit clerk duties are the registration of qualified voters and the maintenance of those related records, in regards to elections," Heitzmann allowed.

"While the circuit clerk's office can never be a self-sustaining office under current legislation, in the near future, I will be turning over a considerable amount of monies collected by my office for the general county fund," Heitzmann added.

The clerk continued, "I am glad to see some restitutions made to crime victims in addition to some defendants having to reimburse the county for a public defender in the court terms this year."

Heitzmann's deputies, Pam Metzler and Jerry Benigno, receive many praises for their assistance in helping make the circuit clerk's office run efficiently.

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Waveland's civil engineering firm is exploring the possibility of undertaking several water system improvements with excess funds from a major project.

At a Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting Wednesday night, Ray Eaton of Lewis-Eaton Partnership of Jackson informed the officials some $4,000 in excess funds would be available for improvements.

The money resulted from the relatively low costs in an estimated $930,000 water system expansion project now in the final construction stages.

The project, funded by a Farmer's Home Administration loan, has provided a water tower and larger water mains primarily installed to soon boost pressures and energize fire sprinkler systems at local US-90 shopping centers.

Mayor John Longo; Herman Yarbrough, an alderman and city utility superintendent; and Louis Smolensky, an alderman, requested the funds be utilized to place larger water mains on Farrar, Broad and South Streets.

Eaton said he would formulate cost estimates for the proposed projects to determine if enough funds were available for all three areas.

The engineer recommended about $400-$500 of the excess be utilized to build a 4,500-square-foot 'mat' around the base of the city's new water tower just north of US-90 to stabilize muddy soil in that area.

Several other modest water system improvements throughout the city have already been funded with the project's money.

The board also agreed to investigate the feasibility of purchasing equipment to perform 'smoke tests' to detect leaks in the city's sewage pipe system.

Eaton recommended the purchase of some 650 tests could be conducted as part of a '201 Study' which is required for sewerage improvement funding by state and federal agencies.

However, Yarbrough reported the smoke tests are not effective in Waveland because of impervious underground clays, but residences not hooked to the sewage system could be pinpointed.

Eaton contended the smoke leak detection method is the most effective process and if properly conducted should reveal any pipe breaks.

He explained the smoke tests involve dropping chemical tablets into manholes. The resulting smoke rises from the ground above leaks indicating a break and plumbing vents in homes showing connection to the sewage lines.

Chamber's Morning Edition to view promotion effort

Morning Edition Coffee, a function of the Chamber of Commerce's Special Events Committee, will convene Thursday at 7:30 a.m. at the Landmark Townsquare Restaurant, Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

Hancock Insurance Agency will sponsor this month's Morning Edition.

A new slide presentation on Hancock County, "A Place for Everyone," will be presented by Stewart Nelson, member of the chamber's Publicity Committee.

Nelson is special assistant to the commanding officer and director of the management and support services office of the U.S. Naval Oceanographic Office, NSTL.

Nelson holds degrees from the American University, the University of Rhode Island and the University of Southern California.

Before joining NAVOCEANO January 1981, Nelson was an American Political Science Association Congressional Fellow.

In that capacity, he served for more than two years on the staff of Congressman Bill Alexander, the chief deputy Majority Whip in Washington, D.C.

The chamber's Publicity Committee, chaired by Bob Hubbard, has been working for several weeks on this updated slide presentation of Hancock County and what it has to offer.

"We encourage all chamber members to join us on April 28 for this special viewing of the slide presentation," said Jeanne Garcia, special events chairperson for the chamber.

Bodybuilders featured at City-County Library

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Sherry Schwabacher, reference services librarian, and Becky Mitchum, children's services librarian, coordinators of library week staged a bodybuilders program Thursday afternoon at the Bay-Waveland Library.

Demonstrating the art of bodybuilding were Arlee Vest, this year's Mr. Gulf Coast, and Linda Emmel, first place winner of the Women's Open Division of the River City Classic bodybuilders held in Greenville last week.

Vest and Emmel both stressed the importance of physical fitness and said people should set a goal each day for exercise.

"Don't set your goals too high or you'll quit," said Emmel. "Be realistic and set a goal that you can keep. For instance, I teach school, have a family and I'm also involved in church. Time is an important element for me so I usually set aside 45-minutes out of the day for a workout," she said.

Emmel is physical education teacher at Hancock North Central High School and bodybuilding and fitness instructor at Loliacano's Health Club in Bay St. Louis.

Vest, former owner of a health club and author of many articles on strength, said that a person's diet is a very important factor in overall health. "Nutrition should be watched very closely when planning meals."

"Delete sugar and fats in your diet. Lean more towards the low carbohydrate foods. Lots of vegetables and fruits are good in a diet."

Don't skip meals—this does not help to lose weight. Watching what you eat and how much is what determines your weight. Even 3 to 4 meals a day is fine as long as the right food and amount are

County unemployment decreases slightly

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's unemployment rate decreased slightly in March based on a current State Employment Service report.

The report shows a March jobless figure of 12.7 percent which is two-tenths of a percentage point lower than the record-breaking figure of the previous month.

Hancock's current unemployment rate is higher than the state and national rates, the report indicates.

Statewide unemployment is 11.6 percent and the national rate is 10.8.

The current county rate resulted from 1,230 unemployed out of a civil labor force of 9,670.

Hancock's labor force increased by 30 in March, but 10 additional workers apparently found work, the report indicates.

Mississippi's unemployment rate represents a decrease of eight-tenths of a percentage point compared to February's 12.4 percent jobless rate, reports O.H. Simmons, Mississippi Employment Security Commission executive director.

Last year's March unemployment rate was 10.7 percent.

Commission figures show 121,700 unemployed and 930,300 employed out of a civilian statewide labor force of 1,052,000.

Initial unemployment insurance claims total 21,400 in March, Simmons reports.

"Some 62 of the state's 82 counties have unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher in March. Of that number, four counties have unemployment rates in excess of 20 percent," he states.

Counties with the highest unemployment are Sharkey at 21.6 percent, Winston at 20.4, George at 20.2, and Greene 20.1.

Jackson, Rankin, Lafayette, and Carroll counties have the lowest jobless rates with 4.4, 6.3, 7.5 and 7.6 percent, respectively.

Some 73 counties show a decrease in unemployment rates from February to March, while only eight counties reported increases. The unemployment rate in Lincoln County is unchanged.

eaten."

Following the demonstration, Vest and Emmel conducted a question and answer session:

— "Doesn't bodybuilding make a woman look masculine?"

— "No not at all," said Emmel. "Bodybuilding just helps firm up the muscles. It can help improve a woman's body tremendously."

— "Don't you have to be young to get into bodybuilding?"

— "Age has nothing to do with it," replied Vest who is 44. "Mr. Olympia was 43-years-old when he won his title. In bodybuilding you improve with age. I know a woman in her 80's who took up body building. She looks and feels great."

— "Isn't it expensive to buy all the equipment to work out with?"

— "No, all you need are the basic tools of bodybuilding which would be a set of bar bells and a dumbbell. These are not very expensive and well worth the money. You don't have to buy weights to start a bodybuilding program. Many people confuse weight lifting with progressive weight training, which is a form of exercising."

— "When you get into bodybuilding you will find that it makes you look better and feel better," said Vest.

Others the new circuit clerk feels has helped considerably include Circuit Judges Ruble Griffin and James Thomas, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, all of the Hancock County election commissioners, understanding attorneys, Ronald Peterson, sheriff; Mike Necaise, chancery clerk; Edward Murtagh, assessor-tax collector; courthouse employees, and the general public.

Heitzmann says he cannot forget his family who has been without him many nights since he took office.

He said, "I appreciate the understanding of my wife and children, as I haven't been home too much since taking office, and I now hope this will change."

The new circuit clerk closed by saying, "There are many official functions under the jurisdiction of the office, and the job is far more complex than most people realize."

HARDWOOD SEED

More than one million hardwood seedlings were grown this past year by the Forestry Commission's Vinona nursery.

This means that more than one million hardwood seeds had to be collected—all of which was done by commission personnel.

Collecting quality hardwood seed is a rather difficult and costly task and we'd like to tell you a little about how we do it in the column this week.

The commission normally offers about eight hardwood species for sale to the public each year. These are Sycamore, Sweetgum, Yellow Poplar, Green Ash, Cherrybark Oak, Bald Cypress, Cottonwood and Black Locust.

The lack of available seed sometimes shortens the list.

Each year a survey is taken to get an estimate of the number of seedlings we'll need to meet the demand for the coming year.

This number is then converted into the number of bushels of hardwood seed needed.

Quotas are then passed on to the county level where the actual collection takes place.

Successful hardwood seed collection requires a thorough knowledge of the species being gathered.

This is critically important due to the individual nature of each species with regard to time of seed maturity, length of time seed will remain viable, frequency of good seed crops, method of collection and handling.

The collecting process begins with location and evaluation of the year's seed crops. While some species produce good seed crops every year, others are somewhat cyclic in seed production and produce good crops at differing yearly intervals—i.e., every 3 to 5 years.

These trends have to be carefully noted and understood in order for us to prepare for "off" years by over-collecting during good seed years. (Many hardwood species seed can be stored several years by properly controlling the temperature and moisture content).

Perhaps the most important aspect of hardwood seed collection is the ability to recognize seed maturity. Best quality seeds are generally obtained from well-ripened fruits. Unfortunately when fruits are fully ripe the trees may have already shed much of their best seed or had them eaten by birds or other animals.

This makes it especially important to determine the earliest possible collection date. While the general seasons in which to make collections are known for most hardwood species, the exact time for seed gathering must be determined for each species, in each locality, each year.

Our experienced collectors usually determine the proper degree of fruit ripeness by their general appearance, color, the degree of "milky" of the seed or hardness of the seed coats, or some combination of these factors.

Hardwood seed collection can be accomplished by several methods. Probably the most efficient and economical method is via collection from felled trees during a logging operation.

However, care must be taken to collect only from trees that have been felled after the fruits have matured. This is sometimes further complicated by the fruits shattering when the tree hits the ground.

One of the more common methods involves placing sheets of light canvas under the branches, climbing the tree, and shaking vigorously. This works well for some heavy fruited species, such as Sycamore, when the fruits are well-ripened. This also may work for light winged seeds such as Green Ash, on calm days.

Another method is to gather seeds or fruits from water surfaces or shoreline drifts. This is practical for only a few species such as Bald Cypress. After the seeds or fruits have been removed, the tree, care has to be taken to prevent spoilage or a reduction in viability.

Knowledge of the species being collected is again of utmost importance. Some species may begin to ferment or heat soon after collection.

These have to be spread out and partially dried before shipment to the nursery.

The seed of other species such as oaks, cannot tolerate drying out. Acorns must be kept moist to avoid a drastic reduction in viability.

Although hardwood seed collection is a challenging and sometimes frustrating experience for us our reward comes the following year at the nursery when those tiny seeds have miraculously turned into 3-foot hardwood seedlings that will eventually be out-planted and play a vital role in the building of our State's economy and environment.

News Brief

WIND ENSEMBLE

The University of New Orleans Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band, conducted by Milton L. Bush, will be presented in concert Sunday, April 24, at 8:15 p.m. in the recital hall of the UNO Performing Arts Center.

Featured soloists will be Louis Berndt, alto saxophonist, and Hezekiah Brinson, pianist. Included on the program will be compositions by Bernstein, Grundman, Della Joia, Chance, Alford, Verdi and Lerger and Loewe.

The concert, sponsored by the UNO College of Liberal Arts and department of music, is free and open to the public.

Anyone who registers for the event now will be charged a fee of $7.50 for the weekend of films, games, panel discussions, and social activities. Registration at the door will be $15.

According to CoastCon Committee President Jerry Patton of Biloxi, the 50 percent savings will be worth even more to convention goers in 1984. "The size of our convention space is doubling for next year," Patton said, "to keep up with the growing numbers of people who attend."

The 1984 convention will offer four video rooms, two film rooms, expanded areas for reserved and nonreserved gaming, panel discussions by leading authors in the fields of fantasy and science fiction, and guest artists as well.

A banquet, costume contest, meet the authors party and other social activities are also planned for the convention, which this past spring drew more than 1,000 visitors to the coast.

For more information, or to register for the 1984 event, write CoastCon '84, P. O. Box 1423, Biloxi MS 39533.

Moderation urged in caffeine consumption

Caffeine is "one of the world's most widely used drugs," according to a newly released Scientific Status Summary prepared by the Expert Panel on Food Safety and Nutrition of the Institute of Food Technologists.

While the panel admitted that many questions are still being asked about caffeine's ultimate safety, it states that "the available data do not seem to support a judgment of hazard to mankind from moderate intake."

Dr. Charles W. Shannon, extension food technologist at Mississippi State University, IFT Regional Communicator for Mississippi made the point that caffeine is a natural component of some 63 species of plants, including coffee, tea, cola, and cocoa, and is included in many over-the-counter medications.

The present Standard of Identity issued by government agencies actually requires that caffeine be included in soft drinks if they are to bear the name "cola" or "pepper."

In spite of its long history of use, according to the IFT regional communicator, caffeine has come under suspicion in recent years as a health hazard.

Depending on the dose, caffeine can increase the heart-beat and basal metabolic rate, promote secretion of stomach acid, and step up the production of urine.

"It acts to dilate some blood vessels, to constrict others, and to increase the capacity for muscular work," the communicator said, and its overall effect is often described as a "lift," but a lift only back to an original, undergraded level of performance — hence it is not a true "stimulant."

Caffeine is distributed throughout all bodily fluids shortly after foods containing it are ingested, according to the IFT expert panel.

This distribution through the body extends to the reproductive system, and caffeine is also absorbed into the milk of lactating mothers.

The time required for the body to eliminate the substance varies with age, sex, hormonal status, medications being taken, and whether an individual smokes.

For example, the "half-life" (time for the body to eliminate half the caffeine which has been introduced) is less than 3 hours in children and smokers, from 3 to 7 hours in non-smoking adults, and up to 13 hours for women "on the pill."

Pregnant women may take from 18 to 20 hours to metabolize half the caffeine ingested, but their metabolism usually returns to normal within a month after delivery.

"There is no persuasive evidence that moderate amounts of caffeine are harmful to the average healthy adult," the IFT Status Summary stated.

"Excessive consumption, however (more than 1000 mg/day, the equivalent of about 10 cups of strong brewed coffee), may lead to caffeineism, sometimes referred to as 'coffee nerves,' especially if consumed in a short time."

The summary went on to state that "it would take a considerable quantity of caffeine to cause poisoning," and estimated the amount at equal to that in about 100 cups of strong brewed coffee or 200 cans of cola beverage consumed within a half hour.

It also stated that since its earliest documented use, "only eight fatalities from caffeine poisoning have been reported in the English language literature, none of them from food."

The IFT Status Summary also reviewed scientific studies on caffeine in relation to a variety of bodily ills, including ulcers and heartburn, cardiovascular disease, cancer, fibrocystic breast disease, and birth defects.

In general, the studies cited showed substantial variation one from another, with little actual solid agreement as to dangers from caffeine to human subjects at levels normally consumed.

The Summary did, however, quote the findings of a review by a Select Committee on GRAS substances commissioned by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in 1979, to the effect that "while no evidence in the available information on caffeine demonstrates a hazard to the public when it is used in cola-type beverages at levels that are now current and in the manner now practiced, uncertainties exist requiring that additional studies be conducted."

The IFT Expert Panel recommended that pregnant women, especially those in their third trimester, should use caffeine-containing food products and beverages only in moderation.

As for the bulk of the population, however, it suggested that caffeine "has had a long history of safe use by humans, and scientific studies conducted to date indicate that mankind will suffer no harm by consuming currently available caffeine-containing beverages in moderation."

Today is the beginning of National Secretaries Week, it is a week when those persons up-front are recognized.

Secretaries play an important role in our society today, they are the persons who usually catch a lot of flack, and have to always have a smile on their face.

We do hope all employers will recognize their secretaries in a special way this week, possibly with some flowers or maybe a lunch.

One thing, we know for sure, and that is the fact that several secretaries have been hinting very loudly what this week is going to be.

A medical benefit fund has been established at Hancock Bank in Bay St. Louis for B.J. Asher.

The young man, son of Bobby and Theresa Asher is scheduled to undergo a lung pace implant at Children's Hospital in Boston Mass.

Persons interested in helping the family in other ways can contact Mrs. Asher at 467-3158.

We wish B.J. well in his surgery.

The recent rains have caused many problems, especially for those trying to cut lawns.

We noted the grass has really been growing very fast in the Cedar Rest Cemetery in Bay St. Louis.

It took us several weeks to cut our lawn as the ground is super saturated with water.

It looks like it is going to dry for a spell and the rains come again.

Some folks have told us they are now planting the third time in their vegetable gardens, we haven't been able to start ours as yet.

Several weeks ago we got the old tiller out and made two passes in our garden plot and almost lost it as well as ourselves.

We can look forward to drier weather, maybe Daylight Savings Time which started this morning will change the weather.

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

SMALL BUSINESS THE LOSER IN SOCIAL SECURITY REFORM

This will probably be my last word on Social Security reform — for a while.

In January, the National Commission on Social Security issued a report to the president which did not address the major small-business concern about Social Security: the continuing increases in payroll taxes to pay for the program. In March, Congress completed its work on the commission report, adopting legislation to solve the Social Security problem "for all time." Congress, too, ignored the concerns of small business.

The Social Security legislation emerged from a House-Senate conference and was signed by President Reagan. It discriminates against most small-business owners. In 1984, only employers will pay additional Social Security (FICA) taxes. One segment of the small-business community, the self-employed, will get a tax credit to compensate for the increased FICA taxes they must pay, and so will employees.

Where were the friends of the rest of the small-business community in Congress when this legislation was being considered? Many of them were hiding behind the argument that no one should tamper with the delicate compromise worked out by the president's commission. Tampering, the argument went, might cause the whole program to unravel.

That was nonsense, of course. There was tampering. The House leadership added long-term financing provisions and increased hospitalization insurance costs to the self-employed. Neither feature was in the commission report.

The Senate tried to improve the commission version with amendments. Notable for small-business people were two amendments authored by Montana Sen. Max Baucus. With Sen. Dan Quayle of Indiana, Baucus called for a credit of up to $300 per business against the 1984 FICA increase. That credit would have effectively eliminated the FICA increase for firms with nine employees or less — a significant help to the economy when most small-business owners are beginning to think about hiring again.

Baucus joined Sen. Bill Armstrong of Colorado in pushing an amendment to ease the requirements for depositing payroll taxes. By reducing the frequency with which small businesses must pay their employee taxes, the amendment would have helped significantly in managing cash flow.

Together the amendments would have meant about $1.5 billion in relief to small-business owners, but both were killed in the House-Senate conference. Led by Social Security Subcommittee Chairman Jake Pickle of Texas, House conferees took care of employees and the self-employed, dumping the entire burden for next year's Social Security tax increases on employers, most of whom are small business owners.

The efforts of Sen. Baucus may be attributable to something he did earlier this year. He held a series of "town meetings" in Montana where he met and heard firsthand from the small-business owners of his state. In the battle to improve the social security package, Baucus did not forget what he learned from those town meetings. He worked doggedly throughout the day of the House-Senate conference trying to convince his colleagues of the importance of relief to small business, the principle source of new jobs. More members of the Congress should schedule town meetings with their small-business constituents before they again take up legislation as devastating as the Social Security package.

(Wilson S. Johnson is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women).

Senator Cochran reports

FLOOD VICTIMS

Senator Thad Cochran has urged federal officials to render every assistance possible to local communities in Mississippi victimized by heavy rains and flooding.

Senator Cochran acted after learning of the heavy rainfall Wednesday and that night in the state, meeting with White House officials early Thursday in Washington, and later contacting the President's office.

"I have asked White House officials to expedite federal emergency relief help for flooded areas and those evacuated and homeless in Mississippi and neighboring areas," he commented.

"I urged them to see that federal emergency relief agencies work as closely as possible with state and local officials to combat this disastrous flooding situation."

The Senator also stayed in contact with state and local officials to keep abreast of the situation in the flood-ravaged areas.

Earlier in the week, the Senator chaired an Appropriations subcommittee hearing on 1984 budget requests for flood control projects in the Lower Mississippi Valley.

"I would like to express my strong support for the continued effort to reduce the serious impact of flooding in the Lower Mississippi Valley. Many of the projects are of critical importance to the people of the region," he stated.

He urged Congress to "continue its strong support for the funding that is required to move ahead and achieve the full savings in human suffering and economic loss that these projects will bring."

FARMERS HOME IMPROVE

LOAN PROCESSING

Senator Thad Cochran has warned top Farmers Home Administration officials to improve their loan processing situation or "face intensive questioning and oversight from Congress."

Senator Cochran, presiding over hearings of an Appropriations subcommittee on Farmers Home's 1984 budget request, reminded agency officials "we began urging you to help farmers work out their 1983 credit problems last fall."

"Now, as the planting season is underway, we are deluged by appeals from desperate farmers who cannot get a decision one way or the other on their loan application. Many may be forced out of production because of Farmers Home's bottleneck."

Cochran, chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee on agriculture and rural development, said the "situation has already reached a crisis point in my own state of Mississippi."

Senator Cochran also pointed out the emergency jobs bill enacted by Congress earlier this year contained $6.5 million for extra personnel for Farmers Home, to help overcome the shortage of key loan processing people in many county offices.

The Senator's comments came Thursday as his subcommittee reviewed Farmers Home's 1984 budget request.

Heart Answers

WHAT IS A PACEMAKER?

The heart has a natural pacemaker that consists of a small mass of specialized cells producing electrical impulses that cause the heart to beat. An artificial pacemaker is an electrical device that can substitute for a defective natural pacemaker and control the heart's beat by a series of rhythmic electrical discharges. An artificial pacemaker is a small battery-powered unit usually implanted under the skin. It sends electrical impulses through tiny wires to the heart to control the heart's rate and rhythm of contraction. Contact your local American Heart Association for more information.

Dana Favre named Governor's Scholar

Governor William Winter has announced that Dana Favre of Bay High School has been named a Governor's Scholar for superior academic achievement.

Winter initiated the Governor's School program to recognize scholastic achievement among high school students and to emphasize the importance of academic excellence.

Governor's Scholars from across Mississippi recently participated in the Governor's Colloquium on Science, Engineering and Technology held on April 13 in Jackson.

The Colloquium, which was sponsored by Governor Winter and the Mississippi Academy of Sciences, is part of an effort by the governor to emphasize the importance of developing high caliber scientific and technological skills.

The theme of this year's Colloquium was "Using Mississippi's Natural Resources in an Era of High Technology." During the daylong event three papers addressing this issue were presented.

The topics covered were future uses of forest resources in Mississippi, new technologies in agriculture, and the availability of water for new and existing industries.

An address by Dr. Walter Massey, director of the Argonne National Laboratory, highlighted the colloquium. Massey is a native of Hattiesburg and one of the nation's leading physicists.

The colloquium is part of Winter's continuing effort to promote and develop the quality of education in Mississippi and recognize outstanding academic achievement.

According to Winter, Mississippi's economic vitality is closely related to the quality of its educational instruction.

Commenting on the colloquium, Winter said, "The growing technological sophistication of the South's industrial structure makes it essential that we allocate additional resources and place increased emphasis on instruction in mathematics, science, economics and engineering. All of us should understand the relevance of science and math to the job market in the future."

National Consumers' Week, 1983

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

A major function of our competitive free enterprise economy is to satisfy consumer demand. The effective demand of consumers is what keeps producers in the business of supplying goods and services and is vital to keeping the wheels of industry turning. Therefore, it is most important that we fully recognize the crucial role consumers play in our economy.

Everyone is a consumer, but too often this role is the most neglected in terms of preparation and training. In our complex market economy major decisions have to be made about living within our means; protecting our futures through insurance, pension plans, and investments; choosing goods and services from our global marketplace; and voting on issues directly affecting our public and private consumption. Because consumer and economic education can contribute immeasurably to our competence as consumers and citizens, it should be started in the schools at the earliest possible time.

Consumers should have access to a wide assortment of competitively priced goods and services produced here and abroad; accurate information on product content and care, on contractual agreements, on the cost of credit; essentially whatever facts are needed to make an informed choice. But of greatest importance to consumers and private enterprise is protection against the marketing of goods that are hazardous to health or life, a fair hearing of complaints with appropriate remedies where justified, and dutiful consideration of consumer concerns at all levels of government.

It is clear that the greatest fairness for consumers can be achieved through the active cooperation of business, government, and consumers themselves working to insure equity, increased competition, and safety in our free market economy.

Because an effective and efficient system of commerce depends on an informed and educated public, I urge schools, public and private agencies, and all appropriate public-spirited groups to advance consumer competence by helping provide the necessary consumer and economic information for all our citizens to make well thought-out choices in the marketplace. While the responsibility for consumer education rests primarily with the individual, the communications media and other interested organizations and institutions play an instrumental part in furthering the understanding of American consumers. I urge consumers to avail themselves of this valuable information and to wisely select the goods and services they seek.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the week beginning April 24, 1983 as National Consumers' Week.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of the office of the President of the United States of America the two hundred and seventh day of January, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and seventh.

Water-Soaked Furniture
Whether to attempt salvaging some wooden furniture that was soaked by water or to buy new furniture is a decision facing many families in the area that suffered damage from the recent flood.

Suggestions about such furniture are given by Miss Sarah F. Fountain, specialist in home furnishings of the Cooperative Extension Service.

If nothing has been done about wooden furniture that was in water, take it outdoors and remove as many drawers, slides or other working parts as possible. These will probably be stuck tight.

Do not force the drawers from the front with a screwdriver or chisel. Remove the back by cutting it out if necessary. Then push out the drawers. Clean off all mud and dirt, probably using a hose.

After cleaning, take the wooden furniture and parts inside and store them where they will dry out slowly. Do not leave them in the sun as they will warp and twist out of shape.

Some furniture, especially that made of solid wood, may be salvaged by regluing. Gluing is fairly difficult to do at home, however, because on many pieces it is necessary to use clamps.

So before starting this task, decide whether it is worth while investing in this equipment and whether you have the time and ability to do the work. It may be that the work should be turned over to a cabinetmaker.

Repairing veneered furniture is so difficult and requires so many different types of tools that it is not practical to try it at home. Get a cabinetmaker to do the job, or have the store from which the furniture was bought send it back to the factory to be repaired.

If insurance allows part value on water-damaged furniture, it may be best to apply the allowance on new articles rather than to pay for repairs on damaged items.

Furniture that has not been submerged may have developed white spots, a whitish film or cloudiness from dampness. If the whole surface is affected, try rubbing with a cloth wrung out of turpentine or camphorated oil. Wipe dry at once and polish with wax or furniture polish.

If color is not restored, dip 3/4 steel wool in oil such as boiled linseed, olive, mineral or lemon. Rub lightly with the grain of the wood. Wipe with a soft cloth and re-wax.

For deep discolored spots, a drop or two of ammonia on a damp cloth may be needed. Rub at once with a dry cloth, then polish.

Cigarette ashes rubbed in with the fingertips are often effective in removing white spots.

If all efforts to remove white blemishes are ineffective, it may be necessary to refinish the furniture.

Removing mildew is a whole subject in itself. This is covered in a separate article.

If upholstered furniture is badly damaged, the stuffing may be so deteriorated that it needs to be replaced. Springs may need to be cleaned and oiled, and the frame cleaned. If much work is needed, the furniture will probably need to be sent to an experienced cabinetmaker or upholsterer.

ASCS Report

USE ACREAGE

Farmers who signed up for the 1983 acreage reduction, land diversion and payment-in-kind programs for wheat, feed grain, upland cotton and rice are reminded of their obligations to apply conservation to diverted acres.

"The rules for determining what land will be eligible for designation as conservation use acreage—the land taken out of production under the program—have been discussed with program participants," said Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"The basic requirement for 1983 is that the land must have been cropped in two of the past three years. This is intended to assure that the land is productive and would have been in production this year if the farmer were not participating in the program," Gennin added.

He said basically the same conserving use rules apply to payment-in-kind conservation use acreage as to conservation acres for the paid diversion and unpaid acreage reduction acres.

The only difference is under summer fallow rules, PIK acreage will have to be acreage that would have been planted in 1983.

The total of these acreage (PIK plus paid diversion plus unpaid acreage reduction) is referred to as conservation use acreage.

These acres must be devoted to approved conservation uses sufficient to protect them from wind and water erosion. Insects, weeds and rodents must also be controlled.

Conservation use acreage may not be harvested. Grazing is not authorized during the six principal growing months (May 1 - October 31).

An exception to the prohibition on haying and grazing is authorized for PIK program participants who planted winter wheat before January 11.

The ASCS official said program participants are encouraged to install permanent vegetative conservation cover or practices on their conservation use acres such as terraces, sod waterways, filter strips and windbreaks.

The Agricultural Conservation Program shares with farmers the cost for installing such practices and for installing permanent cover.

If farmers maintain the cover or conservation practices, the land will be eligible for designation as conservation use acreage in 1984 and 1985.

MEASUREMENT SERVICE

ASCS offers a variety of measurement services to farmers.

Gennin said these measurement services are based on rates which reflect the costs of performing the work.

Among the services which are now available are cropland measurement, measurement of wheat acreage, and measurement of conservation use acreage.

Many farmers are taking advantage of the measurement service for areas of new land and other areas where for various reasons the acreages are not known.

After plantings are complete, farmers who participate in the 1983 Acreage Reduction Program (ARP) and Payment-In-Kind (PIK) Program must report their plantings of program crops (barley, cotton, corn, grain sorghum, oats, wheat, peanuts, and rice) in order to be eligible for applicable program benefits.

In addition, reduced acreages must be determined. Early measurement can provide the means for making an accurate report of crop acreages and reduced acreages which are devoted to conserving uses.

All measurement services provided in Pearl River and Hancock Counties, including cropland measurement, early crop measurement, and measurement of conserving use acreage, will be performed by use of aerial slides when they are available or by surface measurement service should contact local ASCS office.

YOUTH SEMINAR—Tanya Sulih, 16-year-old sophomore, from Hancock North Central has been selected 1983 Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Candidate and will attend a Mississippi Youth Leadership Seminar May 6, 7, and 8 in Jackson. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben McCreary of Diamondhead. The seminar is co-sponsored by the Jackson Jaycees, Optimist Clubs of Jackson, the Mississippi Federation and Kiwanis Club of Jackson. Fifty-two outstanding sophomores from throughout Mississippi will attend the two and a half day seminar which will consist of speeches, discussions, and seminars pertaining to business, government, leadership and industry.

ETV Brief

GARDEN CONSTRUCTION

"The Victory Garden" with host Bob Thomson returns to Mississippi ETV at 2:30 p.m., Sundays, beginning May 1.

On May 1, Thomson meets viewers in the vegetable garden where he talks about some spring construction projects designed to spruce up the planting area. He also offers tips on installing a brick garden path and adding a fountain to the shade garden.

On next week's show, May 8, Thomson meets fruit tree specialist Jim Williams in the mini-orchard. Williams offers tips on pruning, spraying and fertilizing the apple, peach and pear trees.

During the run of the series, Thomson will take viewers step by step through the growing season, as always, demonstrating sure-fire growing methods for vegetable and flower gardens. He'll continue to experiment with new gardening techniques and to introduce new hybrid varieties of flowers and vegetables. In addition to his regular demonstrations of planting, potting, pruning, pest control and other practical gardening advice, Thomson travels to some of the world's most outstanding gardens.

Parish News

By FR. B.C. KELLER
Every Sunday of this Easter season is a feast in which we rejoice over God's gift to us: salvation through His Son. That gift is ours to accept or reject. But acceptance brings us life.

Mrs. Lela Curry thanks parishioners for their cards, visits and concern during her bereavement over the recent death of her husband. We are grateful for her donating Ridgley's Veteran Flag to the parish.

Congratulations to the children who received their First Communion last Sunday: Christy Avery, Travis Collins, Boston Edmondson III, Tiffany Jones, Jennifer Labat, Myron Labat, Jr., Germaine Lynne, Mayesha Moxey, Gerard Price, Lacanya Singleton, Monica Singleton, George Valentine, Jr. and Adrian Whavers.

Religious instructions will be given after 9 a.m. Mass to day for students attending kindergarten through 8th grade in the public school. The Confirmation and Pre-Confirmation classes will also meet then. The 11th and 12th graders will meet on Monday at 5:30 p.m.

St. Rose Catholic Youth Organization will meet on Monday at 7 p.m.

St. Rose Gospel Choir will practice on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

St. Rose Alumni Association will meet this Wednesday in the rectory at 7:30 p.m.

MASS SCHEDULE

Sunday, 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Daily: Monday through Saturday at 6:30 a.m.

Saturday (Vigil) at 6 p.m. Novena Devotions to Mother of Perpetual Help at beginning of Tuesday Mass.

Confessions are heard half hour before weekend Masses and upon request.

Legal Secretaries elect Linda Penrose

Mrs. Linda Penrose, secretary of the Waveland law firm of Gex and Adams, has been named president of the Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries Association.

She was elected at the association's regular monthly meeting April 14 at the Best Western Inn in Gulfport. President Frances Favre presided.

Mrs. Penrose has been a legal secretary for the past 12 years and active in the organization.

She is married to Norvin H.

Penrose Jr., and is the mother of five children.

Other officers elected are Billie Ruddick, vice-president; Christy Freeman, secretary; Sue Hoffman, treasurer; Dana Pollock, governor; and Denise Faucett, national association representative.

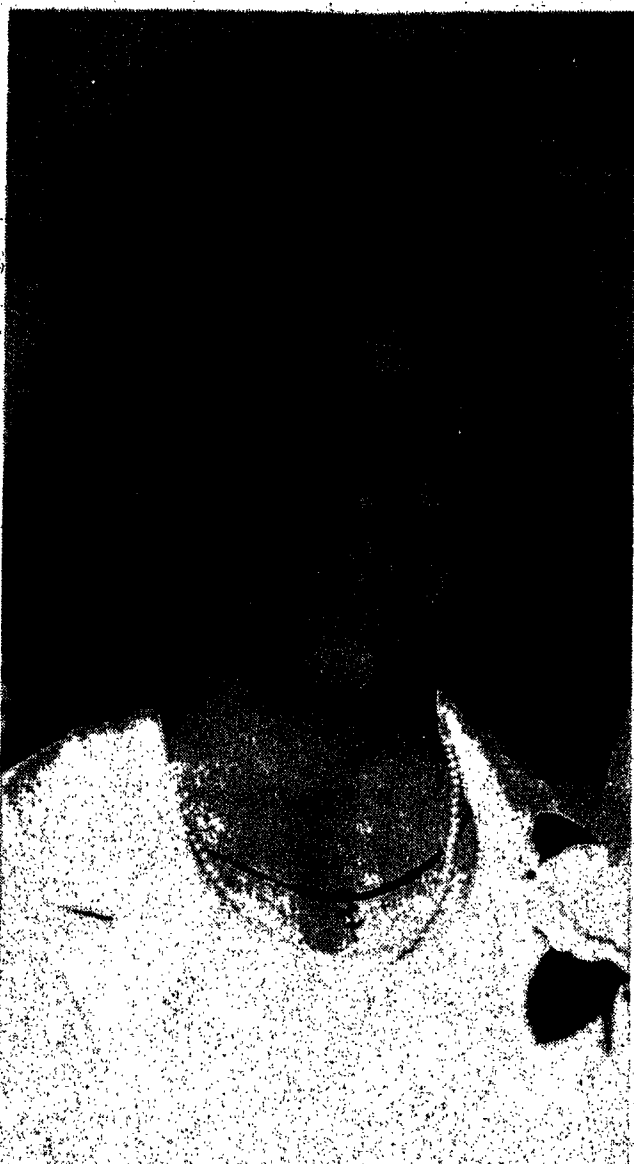

The officers will be installed at the May meeting. Elizabeth Mallint was appointed as installation chairman.

Annual reports were heard from all outgoing officers and standing committee chairmen. Christy Freeman, legal education chairman, conducted a quiz on legal terms.

Further plans were discussed concerning a state convention May 20, 21 and 22, at the Best Western Inn in Gulfport.

Any qualified person interested in attending the monthly meetings of the Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association is invited to attend on the second Thursday of each month at the Best Western Inn.

County Agent's Notes

By John Smith

Stop Sorghum Insects

More farmers in Hancock County are showing interest in planting grain sorghum this year. Planting at the right time is important in getting good results.

Early planted sorghum is usually less susceptible to insects. Many insects are present that may be a problem in grain sorghum at different stages of the growing season.

Budworms, which include armyworms, corn earworms and borers, may be more of a problem until sorghum begins to bloom. Good insecticide coverage is needed to control these insects.

Chinch bugs damage sorghum plants by sucking plant juices, which weakens, stunts and sometimes kills them. Good coverage also is needed, with the spray directed at the lower half of the plants.

Sorghum midge larvae eat the sorghum grain or seed. Two applications are needed to control midge, one when an average of one adult per head is seen after 20 to 30 percent of the heads are blooming and another three to five days later. A third application may be needed three to five days later.

Webworms eat the sorghum heads, usually when plants are in full bloom. Developing grain or seed may be destroyed. Insecticide application is needed when five or more webworms are found per grain head.

The county Extension office has more information on insecticide rates and other information on controlling grain sorghum insects.

Fruit Care

Proper care of your fruit trees early in the growing season is critical to getting high quality fruit.

Spray peaches, plums, bunch grapes, pears and apples according to recommended spray schedules. You can get these schedules at the county Extension office.

Thin fruit if the trees are overloaded. Thin when fruits are three-fourths inch in size and before the seed begins to harden. Thin peaches four to six inches apart and apples and pears to six to eight inches.

Prune and train young fruit trees by removing suckers from trunks and by thinning branches throughout the growing season.

If we have a dry spell later this spring and summer, be sure to water recently transplanted trees.

Weeds Slow Crops

Weeds in pastures contribute as much or more to low forage production than anything else. A good job of controlling weeds is needed to justify other production steps needed to grow high quality forage.

A weed takes the same nutrients, light and water to grow as forage plants. Weeds are hard to control because they have adapted over the years to their environment.

There are two basic kinds of weeds in pastures — grassy and broadleaf. Most grassy weeds are not a major problem because livestock eat them as they graze. It is the broadleaf weeds that cause the most trouble.

One way to control weeds is by having a good, healthy sod that competes with the weeds. But even with the best management, a good sod won't keep out all weeds. That's why other methods such as clipping or spraying with chemicals are needed.

Clipping doesn't kill the weeds, it slows their production so desirable forage can get a head start. A combination of clipping and chemicals gives the best weed control.

Chemical herbicides will remove most troublesome weeds from desirable grasses, except the legumes such as clovers. Since most problem weeds are broadleaf, they are hard to remove without injuring the covers which are susceptible.

Herbicides are safe if they are used as outlined on the container label. For more information on controlling weeds, contact the county Extension office.

Stop Diseases, Insects

Disease and insect control is needed to produce high quality in fruit crops. Your success depends on things like using the proper insecticides in the correct concentrations, proper timing and good coverage.

Apply the insecticide spray as a fine mist to cover twigs, leaves and fruit. Be careful in applying the materials, and follow the recommendations and suggestions on the label.

Control practices can greatly reduce diseases. Keep a healthy plant by applying fertilizers based on soil test recommendations. Prune trees properly to allow light and spray penetration throughout the tree. Remove dead and diseased branches.

Keep weeds away from the tree trunk. After harvest, remove and fruit still on the tree and, on the ground to reduce overwintering sites for insects and diseases.

Farm machinery a prime target of organized thieves

Farm machinery has become a prime target of thieves, says the Insurance Information Institute.

Experts on agricultural crime estimate that as many as 4,000 pieces of stolen farm machinery — worth more than $100 million — may be circulating in illegal sales markets in the U.S. at any time.

Part of the reason for the attraction of this crime is because of the low risk and the high profits involved and because police encounter problems in tracing and recovering stolen machines.

"Many of these thefts are committed by organized rings, that is, by people who make this crime their primary form of living," said Lt. Don Brady, commander of the Livestock Theft Bureau of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

"Farm equipment is harder (than automobiles) to identify and to get back to its owner because we haven't convinced manufacturers yet to put VIN numbers (vehicle identification numbers) on them."

To help deter such thefts and to aid in recovering stolen items, the Insurance Information Institute suggests the following measures:

- Record and keep in a safe place serial numbers from all machines.

- Put a personal identification mark, such as drivers' license number, on each piece of your equipment, especially those that don't have a serial number.

- Do not leave individual pieces of machinery parked overnight in a field.

- Park equipment so that one piece interlocks with another, or use a cable that is hard to cut to string machines together.

- Immobilize equipment by taking out distributor wires.

- Park machinery away from roads or other areas that are visible to passersby.

Gustin passes broker exam

Twelve persons passed the recent real estate broker's examination and are eligible to practice in the real estate profession as brokers, according to Harry J. Joachim of Biloxi, 5th Congressional District Member of the Mississippi Real Estate Commission.

The new real estate brokers include Robert A. Gustin of Bay St. Louis.

The twelve successful candidates were among 32 applicants present for the broker examination.

Also, 78 persons passed the real estate salesman's examination and are eligible to practice in the real estate profession as salespersons.

They include Mrs. Nancy A. Drury, Pass Christian; Otto D. Engelmann, Mrs. Mary J. Irwin, Ms. Mary E. Maggard, and Scott S. Warfield, all of Bay St. Louis.

The 78 successful candidates were among 98 present for the salesman's examination.

ETV Brief

BROADWAY Constance Cummings recreates her Broadway role of Emily Stilson in the television adaptation of "Wings," to be presented on "American Playhouse" at 10 p.m., Friday, April 29, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

"Wings," Arthur Kopit's Tony Award-nominated play, is told from the point of view of Emily, a former aviatrix who in her youth performed daredevil feats. She has now suffered a stroke.

In this TV version of the play, Emily's suddenly shattered world is portrayed by a mosaic of pictures and sounds. The program is a stream-of-consciousness account of what she is experiencing, enabling the audience to share her confusion and frustrations and her struggle to make sense of the world and to recover her powers of speech.

Vets office observing National Consumer Week

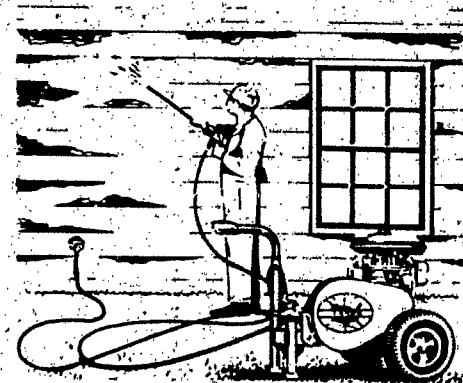

President Reagan has designated the week beginning April 24, 1983, as National Consumers' Week. During this week, the Veterans Administration wants to illustrate the government's role in assisting consumers, according to Mike Ladner, Hancock County veterans service officer.

"Several of our goals are to ensure that veterans are aware of the benefits available to them and their families, to respond fully and compassionately to their inquiries or complaints, and to improve our performance in meeting their needs," Ladner said.

"We want to make our consumers, the veterans of Hancock County, their dependents and beneficiaries, aware that we are here to serve them and to assure them that they will obtain courteous, accurate and complete responses to any questions they may have," he continued.

Annunciation ceremony unites Hoda, Buquoi

Deborah Joye Buquoi became the bride of Gene Angelo Hoda in an afternoon ceremony April 16 at Annunciation Catholic Church in Kiln.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian E. Buquoi Jr. of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hoda Sr. of Kiln. Rev. Austin Walsh, ST, celebrated a Nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Offertory gifts were brought by Thomas Hoda, Frank Perniciaro and Jimmy Perniciaro. Scripture readings were rendered by Marilyn Broom and Karen Hoda. Mrs. Dewey (Aline) Hoda, mother of the groom, was Eucharistic minister.

Musical selections were provided by Lola Luzzza, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of pearl white bridal satin and silk organza featuring a fitted bodice of reem-broidered lace adorned with beaded and beaded Alencon lace and extended to a cathedral train. She wore a beaded and beaded Alencon lace cap which held a cathedral length veil of silk illusion edged with Alencon lace and ending with a rolled scalloped hemline scattered with Alencon lace.

She carried a cascade of a dozen white roses, fern, pearls and baby's breath.

Karen Hoda of Kiln, sister-in-law of the groom, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Fay Waltman of Kiln; Celeste Jackson of Long Beach and Marilyn Broome of Sumrall. Pam Bermond of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the groom, was junior bridesmaid.

The attendants were attired in formal gowns of romance blue silesta jersey, fashioned with empire waistlines and multiple spaghetti straps at the shoulder, pleated skirts and sheer chiffon capelets. They wore hairpieces of spring silk flowers and carried bouquets of matching flowers.

Dewey V. Hoda Jr. of Kiln, brother of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Wayne Hoda, Quentin Hoda and Martin Hoda of Kiln, all brothers of the groom.

Ushers were Thomas Hoda of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the groom; Frank Perniciaro and Jimmy Perniciaro of Waveland, cousins of the bride.

Brian Hoda of Kiln, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. During the ceremony, the couple lit a unity candle and presented each mother with a single stemmed rose.

The mother of the bride was attired in a formal slate blue halter necklined gown accented with bugle beads and a softly flowing French pleated skirt topped with a chiffon draped jacket.

The groom's mother chose for the occasion a formal gown of mauve giana fashioned with Victorian neckline of pleated chiffon, sheer chiffon sleeves and a soft, circular skirt.

A reception followed the ceremony at Discovery Bay Yacht Club in Pass Christian.

The bride's book was attended by Mrs. Wallace Freeman of Springfield, Ill.

On return from a wedding trip to Orlando, Fla., the couple will reside in Long Beach.

Money Talk

Adult Toys

There is a class of goods that can only be defined as luxuries. These are items we may not really "need," but are nice to have and fun to play with. For lack of a better term, they are referred to as "adult toys." In this category may fall such things as campers, motorboats, sailboats, exotic sports cars, snow mobiles, swimming pools, expensive TV sets and stereo systems, a private wine cellar, a summer cottage or winter retreat—the list goes on and on.

For the very rich, these playthings are a part of life. Then there's the rest of us. Most average Americans think about these things and would love to be able to afford some of them. A few Americans of lesser financial means even try to appear that they can afford these "toys," and are willing to go over their heads in debt to have them.

Solutions

Fortunately, in many of these cases, the consumer has a higher than average income and quite a bit of "fat" in their budget. If the consumer is willing to make sacrifices to keep the luxury item or items, living expenses can be cut way back, freeing up money to make adequate payments on debts.

In other cases, such as when the consumer income drops, or when illness or injury occurs, the best solution may be to give up the luxury item, sell it and apply the money to the remaining loan balance.

The creditor may be willing to adjust monthly payments down to a level that the client can afford, particularly in cases where the debtor has a previous history of responsible payment of debts. If the debtor has been a long-term customer in good standing, the creditor will usually be understanding about the problem.

It is also wise to examine the family's goals in light of whether they are consistent with the luxuries purchased and if they are realistic for your income.

GOOD NEWS QUARTET—Scheduled for appearances in Bay St. Louis at a May 1-4 Abundant Life Crusade for Christ at the Bay St. Louis Church of Christ, 101 Pine St., across from Bay High School and at 4 p.m. World Day of Prayer ceremonies May 5 on the Hancock County Courthouse steps in the Good News Quartet composed of, from left, Allen Page, Tracey Shelton, Ronnie Cummings and Darryl Lewis, all of Florence, Ala. Crusade services, scheduled at 10 a.m. Sunday, May 1 and at 7 p.m. nightly Sunday through Friday May 1-4, will feature evangelists from the International Bible College in Florence. Church of Christ minister Sharon Murphy said the crusade is a non-denominational, open to the public "back to the Bible" campaign. In addition to the quartet, the Bay High Marching Band and Choral Group as well as city and county officials are expected to participate in the Courthouse program slated in conjunction with the declaration of Thursday, May 5 as a "World Day of Prayer" by President Ronald Reagan. Co-sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and local religious leaders, theme of the program will be taken from Proverbs 14:34—"Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."

Attorney skills seminar slated

The last seminar in a series of free skills programs for attorneys will be offered at the Mississippi College School of Law Tuesday, April 26 from 5:15 to 6:15 p.m.

Topic will be "What Every Lawyer Needs to Know about Legal Malpractice," to be presented by the Andrew J. Kilpatrick, the Mississippi State Bar complaint counsel, and Jimmie B. Reynolds, partner in the Jackson firm of Steen, Reynolds, Delehite and Currie and a specialist in legal and medical malpractice.

The program will be in Room 302 of the Law School, 151 E. Griffith St., behind the Robert E. Lee State Office Building. Coffee and refreshments will be served afterward.

The Skills Program series was offered by the MC Law School as a continuing legal education service. Experienced practitioners and law faculty members presented the seminars.

Church group plans seminar on widowhood

By JOE PILET

The Women of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian have scheduled a seminar on widowhood to be held at the church Wednesday, May 4 from 10 a.m. until noon.

A panel discussion on legal, emotional and practical aspects of coping with becoming a widow is planned.

Conducting the seminar will be Mrs. Nancy Morse, assistant vice president and a trust officer of Hancock Bank, Gulfport.

Mrs. John C. Ellis Jr. will serve as moderator.

Mrs. Theo Moore will represent widows, and is expected to explain some of the problems those living alone must solve.

The rector of Trinity, the Reverend H. McDonald Morse Jr., also a member of the panel, said all interested persons are invited to attend this event which is free of charge.

THE MORMONS

Waveland Ward

Church of Jesus Christ

of Latter-Day Saints

By PATTY BALDREE
Ward Information Director

Approximately 60 youth members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints from Picayune, Gulfport, Orange Grove and Biloxi were the guests of the youth members of the church in Waveland for a "Super Saturday."

The activities began with a lesson session directed by Blair Pack of Hattiesburg. Pack is employed with the Church Education System in the capacity of director of the seminary and institute programs for Mississippi, Arkansas, and parts of Tennessee and Alabama.

Next came a meal consisting of a fruit salad, tacos, nachos and chips, kool-aid, and ice cream.

The event ended with a computer dance, during which a mock-up of a computer would select a dance partner for the participant.

The purpose of the "Super Saturday" is to provide social, cultural, and recreational activities for youth between the ages of 14 and 18.

The activities are designed by the youth and their leaders to build faith, character, and physical fitness.

All participants are given the opportunity to develop their talents in speech, music, drama, dance, sports, and leadership.

A "Super Saturday" is held each month under the sponsorship of one of the wards (congregations) of the stake (diocese).

This month's event was held Saturday, Apr. 16, at the Waveland Ward Chapel on McLaurin Street.

SCHOOL AWARDS
Four youngsters from the Waveland Ward of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints were among those receiving awards for scholarship and/or music ability during Waveland Elementary School's annual Alpha and Band Banquet.

Jimmy Baldree, second grade, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Baldree of Pearlinton, received a trophy for scholastic achievement. He has maintained an alpha honor roll level in all subjects for the entire school year.

Cathy Layland, fifth grade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Gardner of Waveland, received a trophy for her musical achievement for the school year. She plays the clarinet in the Waveland Elementary School Band.

Ian Wilson, fifth grade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Wilson of Waveland, received a trophy for his musical achievement also. He plays the drums in the school band.

Receiving awards for both scholastic and musical achievement was Rebecca Redditt, fifth grade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Baum of Waveland. She maintained an alpha honor roll level in all subjects for the year, and plays the clarinet in the school band.

Thirty-six children, in grades one through five were honored for the honor roll and 22 were honored for their participation in the band.

The trophies were presented to the youngsters by the officers of the Waveland Elementary School PTO and by Mrs. Betty Diboll and Walter Turcotte, board members for the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

Mrs. J. Randolph Buck, president of Women of Trinity, said, "Following the panel's presentation there will be a question and answer period." Insurance companies in recent years have stressed the importance of educating women to handle their affairs in the event of widowhood. Statistics show that women, as a rule, live five years longer than their male counterparts. Wives, too, are frequently much younger than their husbands.

The practical aspects of widowhood will be stressed, giving suggestions on how to handle financial matters, the maintenance of their home, and how to avoid some pitfalls that may occur during a time of emotional strain.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

"Make no little plans: They have no magic to stir men's blood and probably themselves will not be realized. Make big plans: Aim high in hope and work, remembering that a noble, logical diagram once recorded will never die, but long after we are gone will be a living thing; asserting itself with ever growing insistency. Remember that our sons and grandsons are going to do things that would stagger us."

—Daniel Burnham

can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." (Phil. 4:13)
Jesus Christ is the key to making big plans and achieving them!

The Abundant Life Crusade begins one week from today! (May 1-6).

I honestly don't know Daniel Burnham or even have any idea who he is or where he is from. And yet there is one thing about him that I already know. And that is that I like him!

The paragraph above is the only communication of which I have ever received from him. Yet from that one conglomeration of sentences I can tell that the man has a wonderful outlook on life!

Part of the beauty of the abundant life which Jesus Christ offers you and me is that we don't have to be content with being status quo human beings. I don't know about you but I refuse to be associated with any organization which is anything but exciting, challenging and extremely positive in outlook.

And this progressive outlook on life must not be limited to our religious life. Although it should have first application there. In order to enjoy the abundantly rich life that can be ours we should "aim high" in all that we do, whether it be scholastic endeavors, occupational opportunities or even domestic duties.

I am convinced that God did not create me or you to live out our lives in aimlessness nor hopelessness. I am convinced that He has a purpose for you and me and that that purpose is centered in and around the person of His wonderful son, Jesus Christ!

Notice that Paul did not say, "I can do all things which strengthen me." He said, "I

Florida Limes Are Good For You

Don't overlook the nutritional benefits of Florida limes. Vitamin C rich limes are perfect for dieters, because the juice and peel add so much flavor but almost no calories to food. Limes also make salt-free diets interesting. Their special flavor helps bring out the flavor of other foods just like salt, but with barely a trace of sodium. (AFNS)
